It's the Beginning of a New Era

The Kansas Scholastic Press Association will begin a new year with a new executive director and a new executive board. This will mark the first time in 20 years that KSPA has experienced this much change.

With more than 50 years of service to scholastic journalism in Kansas, KSPA will celebrate the beginning of a new era.

This new era will be built on a solid foundation from its past. More than 65 percent of schools in Kansas claim membership in the Kansas Scholastic Press Association.

The Kansas Scholastic Press Association/ Jackie Engel Endowment will continue to serve journalists through scholarships for both students and teachers.

KSPA will continue to offer three fall conferences at the University of Kansas, Kansas State University and at Fort Hays State University. In addition, KSPA will continue to offer its junior high school conference.

Regional competitions at six sites across the state will provide a springboard to the state competition held the first Saturday in May at the University of Kansas.

Join this active organization and be part of the beginning of a New Era.
